New Policy – Policy JHE

Excused Absences for Career and Technical Organization Experiences

- The board recognizes the educational value of Career and Technical Student Organizations. Participation in these organizations fosters the development of essential, critical thinking, communication, technology, and interpersonal skills through service-learning projects, competitive events, and leadership development, collectively referred to as “experiences.”
- To support student involvement in these valuable organizations, students may be granted up to 10 days of excused absences per school year to participate in approved Career and Technical Student Organization (CTSO) experiences. Absences associated with participation in approved CTSO experiences will be considered lawful.
- Student absences in excess of 10 school days may be considered as unlawful under policy JH, Student Absences and Excuses.
